INSTRUCTIONS FOR AUTHORS

AIMS AND SCOPE

The Archives of Rheumatology is an official journal of the Turkish League Against Rheumatism (TLAR) and is published quarterly in March, June, September, and December. It publishes original work on all aspects of rheumatology and disorders of the musculoskeletal system. The priority of the Archives of Rheumatology is to publish high-quality original articles, especially in inflammatory rheumatic disorders. It is an independent peer-reviewed international journal printed in English. Manuscripts are refereed by a “double-blind peer-reviewed” process for both referees and authors.

Editorial Board of the Archives of Rheumatology works under the principles of The World Association of Medical Editors (WAME), the International Council of Medical Journal Editors (ICMJE), and Committee on Publication Ethics (COPE).

The Archives of Rheumatology is indexed in the following databases:

- Science Citation Index Expanded - SCIE
- Scopus
- The Cumulative Index to Nursing and Allied Health Literature (CINAHL Plus)
- Index Copernicus
- Academic Onefile (Gale/Cengage Learning)
- EBSCO Academic Search Premier

INSTRUCTIONS FOR AUTHORS

1. Overview

All manuscripts should be understandable to the general reader and lead to improved decision making in clinical practice, medical education, research, and policy. Types of articles include Original Research Articles, Systematic Reviews, and Meta-Analyses, Narrative Reviews, Letters to the Editor and Images.

Manuscripts must be original and not under consideration by another publication at the time of submission. Ensure that you have read and understood the details noted in our editorial policy. Failure to comply can lead to delays in the processing of the manuscript, or even rejection.

2. Manuscript Submission

Submission to The Archives of Rheumatology is only online. We do not accept submissions via email, nor hardcopies by hand or post. If you have trouble uploading and submitting the manuscript, please email to cigdemeratak@yazilimparki.com.tr or ozgekenis@gmail.com for guidance.

The office contact details of the publisher are given below:

Bayçınar Tıbbi Yayıncılık ve Reklam Hizmetleri Tic. Ltd. Şti.

Address: Örnek Mah., Dr. Suphi Ezgi Sok.,

Saray Apt. No: 11, D: 6, 34704 Ataşehir, İstanbul, Turkey.

Phone: +90 216 317 41 14

Fax: +90 216 317 63 68

E-mail: info@baycinartibbiyayincilik.com

Please note that articles will not be processed without a cover letter and ethical approval of research.

3. General Formatting

- All text must be written using MS Word.
- Font Type: Calibri, Times New Roman
- Font Size: 18 for the article title, 12 for article text
- Line Spacing should be set as 1.5.
- Alignment justified throughout with at least 3 cm of space on both sides.
- The page number should be added at the right bottom corner.
- The main text should not contain any information about the authors' names and affiliations, and it must be blinded completely.
- Abbreviations: The full term for which an abbreviation stands should precede the abbreviation's first use in the text in brackets and the use of standard abbreviations listed in the “Scientific Style and Format” is advocated.

4. Article Types

The Archives of Rheumatology is using international standards for way of reporting research to the scholarly journals. The EQUATOR (Enhancing the QUALity and Transparency Of health Research) Network is “an international initiative that seeks to improve the reliability and value of published health research literature by promoting transparent and accurate reporting and wider use of robust reporting guidelines.” The Archives of Rheumatology advises authors to visit the EQUATOR Network website (<http://www.equator-network.org/>) to find guidelines for all study types. The Archives of Rheumatology encourages the use of CONSORT checklist for randomized trials, STROBE checklist for observational studies and STARD checklists for diagnostic/prognostic studies.

Only the following types of articles are accepted. Case reports are no longer accepted for publication. The Archives of Rheumatology may publish case reports in letters to the editor format which should provide novel insight.

Original Research Articles

Scientific research articles should include the following sections: title page, abstract, keywords, main text (introduction, materials, and methods, results, discussion), acknowledgments and references. Articles should not exceed 5000 words and 50 references.

Systematic Reviews and Meta-Analyses

Review articles should include a title, abstract, keywords, main topics, and references. It should not exceed 5000 words and more than 150 references. The use of PRISMA checklist for all systematic reviews and meta-analyses is advised.

Narrative Reviews

The Archives of Rheumatology only accepts narrative reviews with invitation.

Letters to the Editor

The Archives of Rheumatology can publish a letter to the editor in the following items:

- Comment on a published article in the journal
- Research reports
- Case reports
- Case series
- Adverse reaction to a drug

A letter must not exceed 500 words in length. The letters should not have abstracts. Letters that do not meet these specifications will be unpublished. Letters will be published on a space-available basis. The editor might also choose to invite a response from the authors of the original paper.

When an author wants to write a comment letter on a published article

- Do not use an impolite, and judgmental attitude
- Make specific rather than general comments
- The comments should be based on scientific evidence
- Do not repeat topics which were studied in the original article
- Approach the subject matter from a different perspective
- Present additional data

Images

Images are a brief clinical report describing a unique image. All images must have patient consent, and the author declaration form must be sent with your submission.

An abstract is not required in images. Maximum 3 figures can be submitted. Each figure should have a brief legend and the written material can be a commentary on the image, not all the details of the clinical observation and should not exceed 250 words. There may be a maximum of 5 references.

5. Title Page

The title page and cover letter are generated automatically during the online submission process. There is no need to prepare and upload them separately. In addition to the title, a running title of the manuscript (not more than 40 characters including spaces) should be entered.

6. Abstract

Original articles should have a structured abstract including the following subheads: Objective, Materials and Methods, Results and Conclusions. For letter to the editor and visual vignettes, the structured abstract is not used. Limit the abstract to 300 words. The abstract must be added to the beginning of the manuscript file. Abbreviations should be avoided. References, tables, and citations should not be used in an abstract.

7. Keywords

Authors must include relevant keywords (2-5) on the line after the end of the abstract. Use appropriate subject headings as listed in www.nlm.nih.gov/mesh/MBrowser.html.

8. Conflict of Interest

In the section for the cover letter, authors should state that there is no conflict of interest associated with the manuscript. This statement must also be added at the end of the manuscript body, before funding information and the contribution statement. In a case of a conflict of interest for any of the authors, please provide disclosure of interest by giving a detailed explanation.

9. Funding Disclosure

Any sources of funding must be declared after conflicts of interests. The authors who have not received any funding must state 'No funding received.'

10. Contributions

Author contributions must be added to the end of the manuscript, after funding information. The authors' role must be stated clearly.

11. Acknowledgments

Contributors who do not meet all the four criteria for authorship, but helped in the study, may be listed in the acknowledgment section. These may be named, and their function or contribution should be described - for example, "scientific advisor critical review of study proposal", "data collection," or "participation clinical trial." Such persons must have given their permission to be named. Authors are responsible for obtaining written permission from the person acknowledged by name, because readers may infer their endorsement of the data and conclusions. Technical help should be recognized in a paragraph separate from those acknowledging other contributions.

12. References

Unpublished observations and submitted manuscripts should not be given in the references section. They must be cited in the text as “name(s), unpublished data, 19...”

Number references in the order in which they are mentioned in the text; do not alphabetize. In the text, the author’s citations must be followed by a reference number in parenthesis. At the end of the book, identify references with Arabic numerals in the text and abbreviate the names of journals by the Index Medicus (www.nlm.nih.gov/tsd/serials/lji.html). In reference, the names of all authors should be stated if less than six. Otherwise, after six names, it should be followed by “et al.” Examples related to correct use of references are given below.

13. Tables, Figures, and Illustrations

Tables, graphs, figures, and illustrations should not be placed in the main text. Separate files should be prepared for tables (each table on a separate page), graphs, figures, and illustrations. Please supply the electronic files for all figures and illustrations including photographs as gif or jpg images with a minimum resolution of 300 dpi.

Each table and figure should have a clear title and be numbered in order of their citation in the text. Arabic numbers should be preferred for tables, graphs, figures, and photographs. Also, each legend should describe clearly what the illustration shows and what each abbreviation means. Tables should not repeat the data of the text. In the case of the use of a previously published table, figure or illustration, written permission from the publisher should be submitted with the manuscript. Identifying information including names, initials, hospital numbers and pedigrees should not be written. Information or illustrations must not permit the identification of patients, and written informed consent for publication must be sought for any photograph.
